- Project Hamaara Sapna, initiated by Ms. Minal Bajaj for Jamnalal Bajaj Seva Trust, endeavours to transform the lives of women residing in the slums of Mumbai with education, empowerment and entrepreneurship.

- Hamaara Sapna was initiated in 2012. The project involves a four tier program to help women realize their potential, both as individuals and as professionals. Women are trained in life skills, basic sewing and tailoring techniques, advanced designing and market and fashion trends. They get hands-on practical training with industry professionals and are provided with employment and business development opportunities. Hamaara Sapna proposes to provide an outlet as a platform; to conduct, manage and run small scale enterprise solely by the beneficiaries, where they can sell the clothes designed by them.

- The project also propagates the use and concept of Khadi. The vision of empowering the society is also linked to the upliftment of the rural women and communities residing in Wardha by importing the Khadi material spun and woven by them for stitching clothes by the Hamaara Sapna women in Mumbai; thus reaping benefits to the rural women as well. With project Hamaara Sapna, marginalised women in urban and rural areas are empowered to fashion a better tomorrow for themselves.

- Life skills and holistic development activities are also conducted for uplifting the women, which include communication skills, spoken english, computer knowledge, finance management, personality development, legal and social aspects, health and hygiene, yoga, civic awareness, time management etc.

Jankidevi Bajaj Gram Vikas Sanstha (JBGVS)

JBGVS is a registered society and a Trust, founded in 1987. It is an apolitical and secular rural development organisation. It aims to act as a catalyst and assist the participating rural community for their own development in the selected 297 villages of Pune, Aurangabad and Wardha Districts of Maharashtra, Sikar District in Rajasthan and Udham Singh Nagar District of Uttar Pradesh. Since its inception in 1987, JBGVS has been involved in implementing integrated rural and urban development programmes towards improving the quality of life of the poor and economically weaker sections of the society. The major focus has been to improve primary education, health, environment and livelihood. Presently, the activities that are carried out by JBGVS both independently and in partnership with domain specific NGOs are given in the succeeding paragraphs.

Bajaj Water Conservation Project (BWCP):

Phase I of BWCP covered 51 villages of Paithan taluka of Aurangabad. The project provided access to drinking water and irrigation facilities for the villagers. Currently, JBGVS is working on soil health improvement, livelihood generation through fishery and goat rearing and agriculture productivity enhancement in these villages.

Phase II covered 110 villages of Gangapur and Aurangabad talukas, which are drought prone. Through continuous work since 2017 towards water conservation, almost 80% of the villages have got access to clean drinking water. The villagers were also facilitated with lifesaving irrigation to their crops in second phase of BWCP. In December 2019, the total water harvesting capacity created was 31,724 TCM, which has enabled irrigation potential of 3,898 hectares. Moreover, silt removed from Percolation Tanks and Nalas was spread over 2,608 hectares of agriculture land, thereby enhancing its productivity. BWCP Phase III, Aurangabad has committed budget of ₹ 19,878 lakh, out which ₹ 9,810 lakh has been disbursed. Phase III of the project was launched in Vaijapur taluka of Aurangabad district in September 2019, covering 12 villages with an area of 8,584 hectares and 2,511 households. In addition, phase III has been started in Aurangabad, Satara and Yavatmal districts of Maharashtra, covering 30 villages with a budget of ₹ 4,263 lakh. These villages have an area of 17,696 hectares and include 34,898 households.
Apart from these, detailed project report preparation for new watershed projects is in process. These will cover 22 villages, with an area of 25,182 hectares, spread across five blocks of Satara, Ahmednagar and Beed districts of Maharashtra.

BWCP Phase II, Aurangabad Project achievements till date include:
- 94 Village Development Committees (VDCs) formed
- 559 Self-help Groups (SHGs) formed
- 447 Water Use Groups (WUGs) formed
- 329 Sites of Nala Deepened and 88 Km length widened
- 18 Core Wall Gabions (CWGs) constructed
- 63 new Cement Nala Bunds (CNBs) constructed and 14 old structures repaired
- 83 Percolation Tanks deepened
- 186 Farm Ponds dug and 55 wells recharged

Case Study: Due to shortage of rainfall over a long period Vijay Bisan Tupe and others in his village faced several water related challenges – from scarcity of drinking water for animals and human consumption to lack of water for agricultural purposes. A bandara was constructed under the Bajaj Water Conservation Project (BWCP) on Shivna river, 4 kms from the village. Built at a cost of ₹ 2.50 crore, this bandara has helped raise the ground water level by 50 feet and recharged about 70 borewells dug wells in a 1.5 km radius. It has made a positive impact on the lives of the village residents, who expect this water level to be maintained for at least a year.

Foundation of Ecological Security, Anand, Gujarat
One of the most critical problems being faced today is the degradation of land and water resources in the catchment areas. This has led to depleting water supplies, thereby affecting agricultural productivity. This project intends to augment conservation of water for improving resilience of agriculture in rain fed areas. The project is spread over Bhilwada, Udaipur, Rajsamand, Chittoorgarh and Pratapgarh districts of Rajasthan, covering an area of more than 35,000 hectares. The total commitment from Bajaj to this project is ₹ 2,700 lakh, out of which ₹ 1,485 lakh has already been disbursed till December 2019.

Shramjivi Janta Shahayak Mandal, Satara
The Project is in Mann Taluka of Satara District, Maharashtra. The project area has four villages. Total coverage is 5,224 hectares benefiting 1,136 Households with 6,251 population. Project period four Years (2017 To 2021). The major issues associated with this area is low rainfall. Average annual rainfall for the last 10 years of the project area is 451.31mm with severe scarcity of potable drinking water. The villagers, especially women are the worst sufferers who spend a lot of time and energy in only fetching drinking water from distant places during summer. Bajaj Group is supporting this project with a funding to the tune of ₹ 1,185 lakh. With the funding till December 2019, 4 Village Development Committees, 39 Self Help Groups, 26 Water User Groups have been formed. Plus, 1,498 Loose Boulder Structures (LBS) and 31 Gabion Structures constructed. Also, water absorption trenches was excavated covering an area of 74 hectares. Due to this water conservation work, this year all wells and percolation tanks have enough water and farmers got lifesaving irrigation to their crops. Migration from villages has also reduced.

People Science Institute, Dehradun, Uttarakhand:
PSI is pioneering the work of natural resource management, community-led watershed-based livelihoods development, post disaster reconstruction and rehabilitation, disaster save housing, environmental quality monitoring, promotion of system intensification and river conservation. The proposed program in partnership with Bajaj aims to regenerate and protect 50 critical springs in five water scarce districts of Uttarakhand. Considering dependency of a minimum of 20 households per spring, the program will benefit about 1,000 households covering a population of around 5,000.

For meritorious students with financial constraints, scholarships are provided. As a policy, it does not advertise and yet it has wait lists for almost all its courses.

Its commitment to educational quality and employability of its students is reflected in its students figuring prominently in University Merit Lists and the number being placed. In 2019, over 400 students of commerce were placed through its academic and extra-curricular rhythm aided by running a certificate course of Bajaj Finserv Ltd.
